

CIRD Save the Date: Rural Design Workshop

April 21–23, Millinocket, Maine

CIRD is working with local stakeholders in Millinocket, Maine and the surrounding region, to create a visual rendering - or “LookBook” - of Millinocket’s downtown corridor that store owners, private individuals, non-profits, and the town government can use to guide downtown development. The workshop will support the creation of conceptual design renderings of the downtown corridor based on community ideas, wayfinding research, walkability, and historical precedent. Visioning for the overall downtown area will produce a cohesive design concept that future investment in the area may embody. The project invites community members of all ages and inhabitants of the downtown corridor and surrounding community to provide input into the design and planning of the area to attract visitors and future residents during community sessions. The project will collaborate with the Town of Millinocket, the Northern Forest Center, Our Katahdin, the Maine Downtown Center, and others.
